Please join us for the 2025 Ohio EMS for Children Conference focusing on the unique emergency care needs of children. Keynote speaker Marianne Gausche-Hill, MD, FACEP, FAAP, FAEMS, interim President & CEO at The Lundquist Institute will discuss pediatric readiness in the prehospital and general emergency department settings. In the afternoon, she will give an update on her sentinel work in defining best practices in pediatric airway management.

Additional subject matter experts will explore how best to provide high-quality emergency care for children. There will also be an Ohio EMSC Pediatric Clinical Save Awards Program at lunch. Attendees can choose from emergency department, prehospital or alternative tracks with tailored breakout sessions and workshops.

Pediatric Clinical Save Awards

The Ohio EMSC Pediatric Clinical Save Awards Program is our opportunity to recognize and honor the EMS and ED teams who have exemplified clinical excellence during a pediatric encounter. Critically ill and injured children present with unique challenges that are often emotionally charged situations. This is our opportunity to pay tribute to those teams who have exceeded their traditional day-to-day duties and provided outstanding service to a pediatric patient, their family and community.

These awards focus on pre-hospital and emergency department teams whose actions yielded a positive outcome for a critically ill or injured child in Ohio during 2024.

The awards will be presented at the 2025 Ohio EMS for Children Conference.
